AEC Would Like to Recognize: Western Agricultural Economics Association Outstanding Senior:

Theresa “Tess” O’Leary was raised on a cattle ranch in rural eastern Oregon. She enjoys working on the ranch, especially during calving and branding season. This love of agriculture led her to major in Agricultural Business Management with minors in Communication and Leadership. Sports are also a big part of Tess’s life. She competes for and serves as a Team Captain for the Women’s Rowing Team here at Oregon State and as the Vice President for the Student Athlete Advisory Committee. Tess is also a competing member of the AAEA Quiz Bowl team. Upon graduation this spring, Tess will begin work at Northwest Farm Credit Services as a Credit Officer Trainee. In her free time Tess enjoys working with kids and animals, cooking and attending many of the sporting events that OSU has to offer.

Applied Economics Outstanding Senior:

Amila Hadziomerspahic is currently a senior post baccalaureate student working on her B.S. in Environmental Economics and Policy. She is involved in interdepartmental research focused on a return on investment analysis for the Oregon Department of Transportation. She also works full time at the Circulation Desk of OSU’s Valley Library and helps maintain the library's technology lending program. Previously, she received her B.A. in physics from Wellesley College. She hails from Sequim, WA and has lived in the PNW most of her life. In between school and work, Amila spends her free time bicycling, reading, and board-gaming.
